24 DEATH TOLL IN BUS WRECK

COURT HELD AT WRECK SCENE

Judge, Jury, Witnesses
And Attorneys Adjourn
To Railroad Crossing

The jury in the $10,000 suit for damages brought by Pete Baralos against Malcolm S. Dixon viewed the scene of the crash upon which the suit is based on Friday morning.

Judge George H. Thompson recessed the hearing in the Superior Court room and went to the railroad crossing on the highway near Merryman's, east of Placerville, Friday morning, with the jury, witnesses and counsel in the case.

Hearing in the matter opened on Thursday morning and it was expected that the trial might be concluded before the end of Friday.

The basis of the suit is a crash which took place on March 1, last, when Baralos, riding on a railroad section work car, was injured as the work car and an automobile driven by Dixon collided at the grade crossing.

On the jury are Severin Walker, Henry Barton, Emma Meyers, W. F. Blodgett, Della Carter, Jessie Stone, U. C. Meyers, Ethel S. Wickes, Wm. Baumhoff, Walter I. Bidstrup, Fred Dorman and Thomas E. Dunn.

"Big Business" Size Is Told

Two-Tenths Of One Per Cent
Of Corporations Control
Half Of Corporation Assets

WASHINGTON (UP)—Dr. Willard Thorp, Department of Commerce economist, told the Monopoly Committee today that American business is tightly concentrated with its power and assets in the hands of huge corporations.

Using 1935 figures obtained from the Bureau of Internal Revenue as his source he said:

Corporations with less than $50,000 assets accounted for over half the number of the 550,000 corporations, but only 1.4 per cent of the total assets.

Corporations with over $50,000,000 amounted to only two tenths of one per cent of the number of firms, but controlled over "half the total assets of all corporations."

Over 86 per cent of all corporate assets are owned by less than six per cent of the firms.

Echo Lake Resort Has 3 Feet Of Snow

Curtis M. Rocca, proprietor of the resort at the lower end of Echo Lake, was a visitor in Placerville Thursday and reported that there is a total of three feet of snow at the resort.

The road to the resort is open and the road to Lake Valley and Carson City is also open.

Mr. Rocca said his resort is prepared to do business during the winter season and has overnight accommodations for a total of 24 guests.

Mrs. Irma Lawyer was a Placerville visitor from Lotus Friday morning and reports her daughter, Mrs. Ethel Tidd, who had been seriously ill, is convalescing satisfactorily.

FOREST SERVICE OPPOSED TO EXTENDING NATIONAL PARKS

Acreage In State All Ready Reserved Is Larger Than States Of Rhode Island And Connecticut,
Regional Forester Points Out

SAN FRANCISCO.—"The Forest Service will fight any proposed extension of national parks in California that will lock up national resources vital to the welfare and prosperity of the people and the State," said Regional Forester S. B. Show, Chief of the California Region, U. S. Forest Service. This applies to the proposed Kings Canyon National Park and any other new parks which under National Park Service policy would be permanently closed to all economic use and development and managed solely for special classes of recreation.

"California," said Mr. Show, "already has more national parks and monuments than any other state in the Union—a total of four parks and eight monuments that cover 4,000,000 acres, an area greater than the states of Connecticut and Rhode Island, and include the outstanding scenic and natural wonders of the state. In addition, California also has more than 70 state parks and monuments. These areas are all permanently closed to economic use of their resources and are managed solely for recreation. This is surely an adequate reservation for park and recreational purposes out of a region containing such a wealth of natural resources that are vital to the welfare and prosperity of the people of California."

"The Forest Service, long acknowledged as the outstanding conservation agency of the Federal Government, challenges the implications that the Kings Canyon area is not fully protected for the best public interests," said Regional Forester Show. "The Kings River basin and its resources are not threatened by destruction and wasteful exploitation. They already belong to the people of California and the nation. This area was incorporated into the national forest system as far back as 1893, and for 45 years has been under the protection of the Forest Service."

Labor Unions Join Forces

STOCKTON (UP)—Thirty-five Stockton unions of the CIO, AFL and Railroad Brotherhoods, bound together in what was believed to be the first "United Labor Council" in the United States, today pledged mutual cooperation against jurisdictional disputes and planned to spread their "good will movement."

A meeting was scheduled for Dec. 12 in Sacramento to open the way for a similar appeasement of warring labor groups and establishment of a Sacramento "United Labor Council."

A spokesman for Stockton's AFL union said:

"We are going to let the world know that we are united."

"What do we care if our leaders don't like the name of our group—we want unity," said another.

Damage Due To Air Mail Interruption near Pt. Reyes is the stamp explaining the rather unusual appearance, for a letter, of a letter received in Thursday's mail by Attorney Robert E. Roberts.

The envelope, addressed to Roberts by a Spokane, Wash., attorney, was a part of the mail cargo carried by the United Air Lines transport which was wrecked near Pt. Reyes this week, with the death of three passengers and two of the crew.

The original envelope was inclosed in a postoffice department envelope. The original envelope had taken some water, the stamp had evidently been washed off, and the matter contained inside was blurred as though by water but, fortunately, still readable.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Killian are home from an auto vacation trip which took them to Salt Lake City and Green River, Utah, and home by way of Boulder Dam.

HOOP PLAY TO START JAN. 10

County League Elects
Officers At Meeting
On Thursday Night

Date for opening the seventh consecutive season of the county basketball league, which this year probably will have ten clubs, was set for Tuesday night, January 10, at a meeting of the league held Thursday night at the high school.

Electing officers and naming a committee on schedule, the meeting adjourned to meet again on January 5, by which time it is expected all details looking toward opening of play will have been completed.

Coach L. A. Brown was named league president and George Duffy, secretary. Leo Barrett, Wallace Ripley and Dana Murdock were appointed a committee on schedule and publicity.

Clubs which have indicated their desire to be counted in on the league include two entries from the high school, along with the American Legion, DeMolay, Forest Service, Snohomish and Mosquito CCC camps, Native Sons, Twenty-Three Club and a team which is being organized by Euell Gray and Glen Gibbs, for which a name has not yet been designated.

In addition to these ten, the Twenty-Three Club has another team which expects to play in independent competition this year and it is reported that a second independent team, under other sponsorship, is being formed.

The league hopes to sell season tickets for the schedule, using whatever funds are realized for the league expenses.

Accident Verdict In John Kemp Death

A coroner's jury at Sacramento Thursday night found that John H. Kemp, 58, of Pilot Hill, who died at Sacramento on Thanksgiving Day, came to his death by accident. Evidence was to the effect that Kemp had become involved in an altercation with Jay C. Nurse, deputy Sacramento county engineer, as a result of his alleged insistence upon driving through a road improvement project.

In the course of the argument, in which Kemp was said to have threatened Nurse with an auto crank, the Pilot Hill man was pushed in such a manner that he fell, fracturing his skull, which caused death.

THREE OTHERS MAY DIE

House-To-House Canvass
Shows 39 Pupils And
Driver Shared TragedyBy NEWTON A. STEARNS
United Press Staff Correspondent

SALT LAKE CITY. (UP)—A house to house canvass established today that 39 children and one adult had been in a school bus when a freight train, roaring through a blizzard at 52 miles an hour, smashed into it. Of those 40, 24 were killed, three were injured so severely that they'll probably die, and the remaining 13 suffered hurts of varying degrees.

Not until volunteers had gone from door to door of the school district near here from which the children came, asking "Did your children return from school?" was the exact number of the dead and the exact number of children who had been in the bus established.

Most of the dead were killed outright and some of the bodies had been so mangled, torn, and dissected that it had been impossible to establish how many bodies the parts represented.

The bus loomed to those in the swaying cab of the speeding locomotive, when it was bearing down on the crossing. The engineer had whistled for the crossing. The bus came up on the rails from the fireman's side of the cab, and the fireman screamed: "Big hole her!" The engineer closed the throttle and slammed on the air brakes, and a split second later the engine was jarred by its impact with the bus. "Big hole her!" in the language of railroad men, means to apply the emergency brakes.—Ed.

Engineer E. L. Rehmer said he still was pulling the whistle cord when Fireman Telford Elton shouted this command to him: He had to drop the cord to obey.

"The next thing I knew part of the bus was in front of the engine," he said. "Elton yelled as soon as he saw we were going to hit the bus which had stopped, then started again. We did everything we could to prevent it, but after it was over there wasn't much any of us could do."

Marjorie Groves, one of the children, told this story:

"The bus stopped as usual and then started again. Two of the kids were shouting, we were skylarking and having a good time. Then suddenly somebody yelled, 'Train.' There was a blur in front of the window. I guess it was the train. There was a terrific crash and I don't remember anything else until I was lying in the snow beside the tracks. Another girl helped me into the caboose of the train. Then they brought us to the hospital."

Three hundred yards away stood June Wynn, 16, waiting for the bus. "I was standing in front of my house," she said. "It was about 9 o'clock and I wondered why the bus was late. It was snowing so I figured it might have gotten stuck."

"Then I saw the bus coming on the other side of the tracks. The freight train was quite a distance away. The bus stopped a short distance from the crossing. Suddenly it started again as the train came nearer."

"I thought sure the driver intended just to come closer to the tracks and then stop again. But he didn't. The train whistle must have (Continued on page 4)

THE MONROE DOCTRINE IS 115 YEARS OLD TODAY

Continental Political Factors Of Today Are In Many Ways Similar To Those Of 1823; Then
As Now Old World Philosophies Held ChallengeBy HARRY W. FRANTZ
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON. (UP)—President James Monroe sent the famous "doctrine" which bears his name to the United States Congress 115 years ago today. (December 2, 1823), and the anniversary finds the world political pattern in many respects similar to that which then troubled the statesmen of the Western Hemisphere.

Although the roles of particular countries have shifted, the continental political factors of 1823 had many points in common with 1938. Then as today Washington and other American capitals felt a deep intraquility over the apparent conflict between political philosophies of the Old and New World; the invasion of the American continent by one or more European powers was considered more than theoretically possible; while the rising hegemony of a Pacific power had warned of hazards on the western shores of the continent.

Another historical analogy is found in the recent closing of relations between the United States and Brazil to counteract the possibility of foreign "penetration," which corresponds to the fact that Brazil was the first American republic officially to endorse the Monroe declarations through statement by Minister of Foreign Relations, Carvalho y Mello.

The incentives to the historic declarations made by President Monroe in his message to Congress were (1) the advance of Russia from Alaska down the western coast of America; (2) the possibility that one or more countries of the European Holy Alliance might attempt to disrupt the independence of newborn American republics, and (3) the desire to give permanence to a democratic republic, rather than monarchical system in the Western Hemisphere.

RANSOM KIDNAP PLOT FAILS

Girl's Father Says She Was Released On Convincing
Captors Family Lacks Wealth

OXON HILL, Md. (UP)—William B. Brown told reporters today that his daughter, Mary, 18 year old convent student, was kidnapped for ransom but won her release when she convinced the abductors that her father had no money.

Brown, talking with reporters on muddy Oxon Hill road that runs outside his farm home near Washington, declared that the girl had not been harmed in any way. Physicians examination showed that except for a few minor bruises and scratches the girl was not injured.

The examination disclosed that the girl had not been attacked. Maj. Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of Maryland state police, said he was puzzled by one angle of the girl's story. He declared he did not see how she could have made her way across country from the spot where she said she was released without cutting her legs and feet to ribbons. Wearing heavy police boots, Munshower walked a short distance into the bramble bushes through which Mary said she walked. He returned showing his boots badly scratched and scarred.

BANK DENIES SEC CHARGES

Transamerica Stockholders
Cautioned Against Selling
Holdings At Low Value

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Transamerica corporation told its stockholders today that charges made against it by the Securities and Exchange Commission were "without significance" and denied it ever filed false or misleading documents with the commission.

The statement, signed by John M. Grant, President and R. P. A. Everard, secretary, said at least 14 out of the 18 items in the commission's complaint related "entirely to accounting practices."

It urged stockholders "not be influenced by the action on part of the commission to the extent of sacrificing your holdings at prices substantially below real value."

"We can assure you," the statement said, "that your corporation has had a prosperous year and that its regular dividend will be amply earned."

The commission caused a nationwide sensation November 26 by charging that Transamerica, headed by A. P. Giannini, only major financier to support the new deal, had made "false and misleading statements of material facts" in financial documents filed with the S. E. C.

Picking Gifts For Your Child

Ask Yourself Certain Questions Regarding Them, Advises Myers

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

IN SELECTING playthings for your child, ask yourself a few questions: Is the toy suited to the child's age? Can he enjoy it without the aid of an older person? How long will your child be interested in it? How long will it last? Is it safe? A few sturdy toys are much better than many fragile ones.

Many toys received all at once may not be good. Some wise parents who buy many toys just before Christmas give only part of them to the child at Christmas. They store some of the toys away and present them one at a time over a period of several weeks or months.

For children over three or four, be sure to select tools and materials for creating and making things; also some games to be played with other children and other members of the family indoors.

Magazines, Books

For the child of school age, consider magazines, books and sets of books, including one or more encyclopedias. There are available several good magazines, even for the preschool and primary school child, and still other magazines for older children. Appropriate magazines are of special value to the child slow in reading, since they may lure him into reading for fun from material very interesting and easy. Then the magazine gift lasts through the year, month after month.

Good graded sets of books in literature, history and science are on the market, some even being adapted to the lower elementary grades. These pictures and the legends which explain these pictures, together with the fascinating fact accounts related to these, afford hours of valuable amusement to the child as he browses among them alone or in company with his playmates.

Reference Sets

Moreover, the program of the modern elementary school makes the ownership of one or more good reference sets in the home very desirable. Besides, in the home where all members of the family talk freely and learn from one another, a good encyclopedia is in constant use for answering questions and settling arguments.

We parents should examine the display of children's books at the public library and the local book shop.

Free lists of gifts as follows may be had by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it. Be sure to indicate the age of your child.

- Graded list of toys.
- Graded list of books for child to read.
- Graded list of books from which to read to the young child.
- Books for parents on child-rearing.

The Sin of Lying

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Dec. 4 is Exodus 20:16; 2 Kings 5:20-27; Proverbs 6:16-19; Matthew 15:19, 20; John 8:42-47; Ephesians 4:25; Revelation 22:14, 15, the Golden Text being Psalm 51:6, "Behold, thou desirest truth in the inward parts.")

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.
THE NINTH commandment, "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor," is the basis of today's lesson.

You must not tell lies about your neighbor, which means those with whom you come in contact. That is what the commandment means.

The lesson gives some interesting stories about men and women of olden times who told lies, and were fearfully punished for them. For instance, it tells about Gehazi, servant of the prophet Elisha. Naaman was a great and rich man in those days, but he had a dreadful disease called leprosy for which there was no cure. He went to the king of Israel and asked him to cure him, but the king said in astonishment: "Am I God, to kill and to make alive, that this man doth send unto me to recover a man of his leprosy?" And he sent him to Elisha.

Elisha worked a miracle and cured Naaman. Naaman wanted to heap money and riches of all sorts upon Elisha, but he refused all rewards. His servant, Gehazi, however, thought it a great pity that someone did not profit by this rich man's generosity, so secretly he ran after Naaman and told him his master had sent him to collect the reward. Then Naaman, not suspecting, insisted that Gehazi take as much again as he had asked. But when Gehazi went back to Elisha he knew at once what his servant had done, and asked him where he had been. Gehazi said he had not been anywhere, whereupon Elisha made him a leper for his sins.

Then there is the story of Ananias and his wife, Sapphira. Ananias sold a piece of land, and instead of turning the money over to the Apostle Peter, as he was supposed to do, he kept part of it. His wife knew of the deal, too.

Now when Ananias gave Peter the money Peter asked him why he was keeping some of it back. "Thou has lied unto men, but unto God," he said.

And Ananias, hearing these words fell down and died. Later his wife came to Peter, not knowing what had happened to her husband, and she repeated the lie, and she too died.

Of course, not all liars meet such prompt and severe punishment. Many go on lying and living, year after year. But they are as surely punished as if they were made lepers or died at once for their sins. At last no one believes anything they say, and even when they want very much to be believed they are not. "He (or she) is such a liar, you can't believe a word he says," people say.

And besides, such a one is always tripping himself up. It is said that a person must be very smart indeed to be a successful liar, for he must remember always what he has said, most often back his first lie up with another and still another, until he himself hardly knows what is the truth. Truly it is said that "honesty is the best policy."

There are, of course, such things as so-called "white lies." It makes an interesting discussion to argue for and against the use of these lies. Should they ever be told? The only possible excuse for telling them is when the truth might hurt someone.

Did you ever play the game "where all sit in a circle, and one whispers some sentence to his next neighbor? The neighbor whispers it to one next to him, and so on around the circle. The last person to have it told him repeats what he has heard, and it is astounding to see how constant repetition has distorted a simple sentence or fact. Without meaning to do more than repeat what is told one, the sentence is so changed that at the end it does not mean at all what it did in the beginning.

So gossip about an acquaintance grows into dangerous lies which may hurt him all his life. If you must talk about people, be a "golden gossip," and tell only good things about them. Then it won't matter if they are exaggerated.

That unto me every knee shall bow, every tongue shall swear. Surely, shall one say, in the Lord have I righteousness and strength: even to him shall men come."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which read as follows: "Spiritual causation is the one question to be considered, for more than all others spiritual causation relates to human progress" (p. 170).

rather than Russia which is looked upon as a possible source of encroachment. Whether such a trans-Pacific fear is warranted or not, Japan has in any case given literary attention to the Monroe doctrine by seizing its name for an "Asiatic Monroe Doctrine" which seeks to preserve "Asia for the Asiatics."

The Holy Alliance which troubled Monroe in 1823 consisted of Austria, Prussia, Russia, and France. This alliance had authorized the French military intervention in Spain to restore Ferdinand VII to absolute power. It was this object lesson which caused fear on European trans-Atlantic steps to invalidate the independence of Spain's former colonies in the New World.

Today, there is not a corresponding grouping of European powers, but the rise of powerful totalitarian states, with excess population and aggressive foreign policies, caused a new sense of intraquility and desire for security in the Western World.

In 1938 as in 1823, it is the contradiction between political philosophies that disturbs American statesmen most keenly. The United States at that time had definitely passed any possibility of a monarchial resurgence, but the new Spanish-American states were a quarter century younger, in some cases less secure in their republican philosophy, while Brazil had just emerged as an independent empire. The Monroe doctrine, therefore, aimed generally to strengthen democratic sentiment on this continent. Today the philosophy of democratic representative government was with the philosophy of absolutist and centralized regimes.

In 1938 the United States seeks to strengthen the solidarity of the American republics by Pan American co-operation based on juridical equality and non-intervention, defense unity, and through a navy large enough to operate against any single non-American invader.

In 1823 the international problem was met by Monroe's Doctrine in these words:

"We owe it to candor and to the amicable relations existing between the United States and the allied powers, to declare that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety. "With the existing colonies or dependencies of any European power we have not interfered, and shall not interfere, but with the govern-

24 Death Toll In Bus Wreck

"I heard a crash and covered my eyes. When I looked again, the engine was right across the road from me with part of the bus still in front of it.

"I called my father and we ran through the snow to the tracks where the train had stopped. Trainmen told us to hurry back home and call doctors and ambulances. We did.

"I knew most of the kids on the bus. Gee, it was awful."

David Witter of Denver, a transient riding the freight, thought it "had plowed into a herd of cattle."

Identification of the bodies was difficult. One hospital ward was filled with the injured. Mothers and fathers wept. Several became hysterical, some fainted.

The parents who passed through the ward without finding their children knew that they lay in the room beyond—the morgue.

One mother said that one of her two sons, Jack, stayed home because of a toothache. But Carol had gone.

"Find out if this body could be Carol's," she said. It was.

George Hunt's body was identified by his leather jacket. Naomi Webb's body was identified by her red-gold hair.

MACKAY, Ida, (U)—"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" gave the CCC camp at Pass Creek the thrill of its life. The film caught fire, turned over the projector machine, set fire to 10,000 feet of film, burned the roof off the projection booth and demonstrated the ability of the CCC boys to get out of a burning building in a hurry without anyone getting hurt.

LOTUS

A very pleasant Thanksgiving took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bacchi. A large turkey dinner was prepared by Mrs. Bacchi for the occasion to which all present did sure enjoy the spread.

Among those who took part in the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Jake Brugger, who came up from their Modesto home, Mrs. Brugger being their only daughter; Mrs. Dick Flowers and Miss Hazel Ruple of Placerville. Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bacchi, Archie Lawyer, Bill Stages, Frances Bacchi and the host and hostess, Henry Bacchi and wife.

Mrs. Lottie Galleher returned to her home on Monday last after spending her week's vacation in the Bay City. She was accompanied on her return by Mrs. Mary Howland, a former resident here, who will visit for a time at the Galleher home.

Mrs. Ella Norris of Coloma was in our town the past week canvassing for the Red Cross as she has been one of the many appointed for this district and we are pleased to say Ella met with good success.

Another family reunion and with a good Thanksgiving dinner took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Pountain on Thursday last when a good dinner was served to their three daughters, sons-in-law and families. Some fourteen sat down to the table. Among those were Ray Rosenberger, wife and two daughters, Freeman Liddell and wife, Margaret and Geo. Clough, Albert Herzog, Jr., wife and two children, also the ladies' father and mother. Their other two daughters, Mrs. Clara Eisenhuth of Greenville, Plumas County and Mrs. Madeline Casarung of San Francisco were not present on account of being so far away.

Chas. Cavalier, deputy sheriff of San Mateo County, with his wife and son, Charlie, drove up from their home at Burlingame last Wednesday evening and spent Thanksgiving with Dr. A. L. White and wife. As luck was, Loring White, vegetable and fruit inspector, came up from the lower part of the state to spend a few days with his parents and, was also present at Thanksgiving dinner.

A fishing party comprising Charlie Hines and his father Frank Hines, Andrew and Clarence Marchant left Lotus early Wednesday morning last and went up on the Feather river fishing, returning home towards evening. All had good luck bringing home seven or eight large salmon between the four men.

Archie Lawyer and Francis Bacchi took a bunch of their cattle over to lone for the winter pasture on Friday last.

The past week we have had very cold weather, the mercury registering as low as 24 degrees on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 6:30 a. m. The maximum for the week past has not been above the 72 degree mark.

Eddie Fenske and wife came up from their home in Alameda and enjoyed Thanksgiving day and dinner at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Fenske.

We have been asked by people from Sacramento and other points if the Coloma, Gold Hill and Lotus people are going to give their Gold discovery or '49 dance in January, a question we were unable to answer. But we are very certain that our people will not let this January coming go by but what they will give their yearly ball as in the past.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reaside and Miss Helen Reaside left Tuesday morning for San Francisco to spend the Thanksgiving holiday and returned Friday evening after a very enjoyable visit.

Mrs. Carrie Till was a caller in our town Saturday last taking Mrs. Ethel Tidd over to Placerville to see the doctor. While here they dropped in at the Oaks resort and spent a few minutes with Irma Lawyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Hector Williamson, Mrs. Irma Lawyer, Mrs. Florence Hines, Mrs. Lottie Galleher, Mrs. May Howland and Mrs. Ella Norris drove over to Placerville last Wednesday evening and took in the Episcopal Guild card party. All enjoyed the evening.

The Rev. Rex Barron and wife of Placerville called at the Reaside home Sunday for a short visit.

Henry Bacchi, Florence Hines, Uncle Will Galleher, Mrs. Mabel Veerkamp and Irma Lawyer were among those from here who went up to Georgetown last Friday night, and took in the Townsend card party. They report a good crowd present and the refreshments up to date.

George Balderston, who has been absent from our town for the past four months, returned home here for the winter months and is contented in his cabin on the Henry Bacchi ranch. He came up from Bakersfield.

Andy Wolf, Garden Valley stock man, was a Lotus caller the past week enroute to Placerville to pay his taxes.

Our school, after a week's vacation, opened as usual with a good attendance on Monday morning, also the High School bus, after laying off for a week, rolled out for Placerville with Ray Rosenberger at the wheel on schedule time as usual.

Mrs. Sadie Mayhew, with her son and daughter of Klamath Falls, and Mrs. J. E. Lawyer of Nevada City, also Bob and Donald Gilkey of Colfax, were calling on Mrs. Ethel Tidd on Saturday last.

Mr. and Mrs. John Scherrer are home from a visit with their daughter and other relatives at San Francisco.

PINO GRANDE

Operations are fast drawing to a close at Pino Grande and Camp 14 is now shut down for the winter. Each day last week a few men passed through Pino to get their last check before heading for the towns and their bright lights. Most of the men seemed glad to be through for the season, as at times life in a lumber camp becomes very tiresome. However, each year sees about the same crew return, no doubt the call of the big trees and open spaces makes itself felt doubly strong after a few months in the city, but right now at the shut down most of the crew sighs with relief and is glad for a change of scenery. Most of the woods families will winter in or near Camino with a few going to Sacramento, where most of the lumber-jacks stay for the long winter shut down.

The last load of logs came into Pino on Tuesday. As the pond only holds about three days of sawing, Thursday night or Friday noon should see the last log sawed and the men wandering up the hill with the mixed feeling of relief and regret that each shut down brings. Relief that the next day a six o'clock whistle won't get them out of their warm beds into a cold, cold world and regret that now that the close down is here the pay checks stop too. Are one's feelings about anything ever clear cut and decisive or aren't they always tempered with, I wonder, I wish, or I hope.

Herbert Crawford left for Camino on Wednesday. He plans to work in the yard there this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. William Berry moved to Camino on Saturday. They moved into their new home, completed this fall for them by the company.

A few of the men from Camp 14 are staying at Pino this week. They have some work to do on the log dump before heavy snows set in. A few of them are staying at the annex and others are quartered in Tin Can Alley.

Last Tuesday found quite a number of Pino women in Placerville, probably doing shopping for their Thanksgiving dinner. Those on business at the county seat were, Mrs. Frank Orr, Mrs. Andrew Ham-lasher, Mrs. Harry Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Major, Ray Beckett and Mrs. Will Beckett, Mrs. Lew Soderberg and Mrs. Robert Harrison.

Mrs. Hutchinson and two children spent their institute vacation with Mr. Hutchinson here.

Bob Beckett returned to work on Monday morning on the "five spot." Some time ago Bob injured his index finger and crushed part of his hand while coupling two cars.

Tuesday afternoon the line on the block that dumps the logs into the pond broke and the block dropped to the platform of the log dump missing Regie Darr by the merest fraction of an inch. He was quite badly cut by the whipping lines. Two long and deep gashes in his head being his worst injuries. J. Nyberg, who arrived just after Regie had been carried to Dr. Brook's office, took him to the Placerville Sanatorium after Dr. Brooks had bound up his head wounds and given him first aid. Regie is expected to return soon to Pino.

Otto Justis won a turkey at the skating rink on Saturday, November 19th, so he went to Placerville for it on last Tuesday evening in order to have time to prepare it for the family feast on Thanksgiving.

A few weeks and Pino will probably be "snow bound" so news from Pino in the near future will no doubt be meager and far apart. Only a couple of weeks more, I guess. What's your guess.
